Intimate Partner Violence Training

Presenters

Kelly O'Connor

Kelly is the Education & Outreach Director for New Hope for Women where she oversees New Hope's violence prevention programs. Kelly previously worked for The Carter Center in South Sudan, managing operations for the Guinea Worm Disease Eradication Program. Prior to her work with The Carter Center, Kelly worked as a Humanitarian Researcher for Oxfam America in Boston, MA.

Kelly holds a BA in International Relations and a BA in Middle East Studies from the University of Arkansas, and a MA in International Human Rights & Humanitarian Assistance from the University of Denver. Her specialties include South Sudan and sexual-gender based violence in armed conflict.

Susanna Norwood-Burns

Susanna Norwood-Burns is the Waldoboro Community-Based Advocate for New Hope for Women. She holds a BS in Mental Health and Human Services and a BS in Justice Studies, both from the University of Maine at Augusta. She is a Licensed Social Worker-Conditional and a Certified Alcohol and Drug Counselor. In her free time, Susanna enjoys cycling, cross-country skiing, and spending time with her family.

Jesse Lucas

Jesse Lucas is the Community-Based Advocate at New Hope for Women responsible for advocacy and outreach in Knox and Waldo Counties. She holds a BA in Women and Gender Studies from the University of Southern Maine. Jesse started her career with NHFW as a helpline volunteer and later completed an internship prior to being brought on full time by the agency. Jesse has lived in Maine since she was 9 years old and currently lives in Rockland.

By Jan. 1, 2020 an applicant for Social Work license renewal must demonstrate a one-time successful completion of the equivalent of 12 hours of continuing education or course work in family and intimate partner violence.
